PROCTOR AND COCKRELL WIN NODAWAY COUNTY ELECTION

FORMER HAS LEAD OF 154, LATTER 82.

MRS. CLARDY WINNER

A larger vote was cast in Nodaway County at yesterday's primary election than was expected and the voting late in the afternoon was heavier than it was in the morning hours. The total vote cast for the Democrats for congressman was 2,088 while two years ago the Democrats cast 1971 votes in the primary for governor. The Republican vote was more, also, than two years ago, the Republicans casting yesterday 1,356 for congressman and two years ago 1,476.

David M. Proctor, seeking the Republican nomination for the long term as United States senator, carried Nodaway County over Senator George H. Williams by 154. Proctor failed to carry Maryville and Polk township, losing this township to Williams by 14 votes. For the short term as United States senator, Williams carried the county by 711 plurality. Proctor was not a candidate for the short term. For the short term Williams carried Maryville and Polk township by 298. Priest received 88 votes in Maryville and Polk township for the short term while for the long term he received only 18 votes.

Hawes Loses County.

On the Democratic ticket, Willis H. Meredith, for the short term as United States senator, carried the county over Harry B. Hawes by 48 votes. In Maryville and Polk township, Meredith lead Hawes by 21 votes. For the long term, Ewing Cockrell carried the county over Hawes by 82 votes. Cockrell also carried Maryville and Polk township over Hawes by 27 votes.

George W. Reavis, for state superintendent of schools, led W. S. Smith by 425 votes on the Republican ticket. Reavis also carried Maryville and Polk township by 230 plurality.

Judge Ernest S. Gantt of Mexico carried Nodaway County by a big vote over his opponents, Carl L. Ristine and Mark A. MacGruder. Gantt received 1,262 votes to 304 for MacGruder and 297 for Ristine. Gantt's plurality was 958. The Democratic attorneys of Nodaway County had endorsed Gantt.

On county contests, interest was centered on the race for recorder of deeds and county clerk on the Democratic ticket, and for circuit clerk and recorder of deeds on the Republican ticket.

Judge J. N. Billingsley, present incumbent, won re-nomination over Frank Hinton for judge of the county court, north district, by 168. The two other members of the county court, Judge E. T. Bailey, for presiding judge, and Judge Charles S. Armstrong, for judge of the south district, both had no opposition. On the Democratic ticket, Henry Heitman had no opposition for the nomination for presiding judge.

Fred Wright made a fine race for the nomination as a candidate for county clerk on the Democratic ticket, Wright's plurality was 797. Ova C. Goff was second with Fred Gaddis, third. Wright captured Maryville and Polk township by 246 votes over Goff.

Tilson An Easy Victor.

William R. Tilson for circuit clerk ran true to form as being a "race horse." He carried the county by 802 over L. R. Holt, who made no campaign at all and who, it is said, had been away from the county since he filed for this office. Tilson's lead over Holt in Maryville and Polk township was 332.

Mrs. Mamie E. Clardy, present incumbent, was successful in her race for recorder of deeds. Mrs. Clardy won over Marion F. Smith by 315 votes, and also carried Maryville and Polk township by 138 votes. Mrs. Clardy made a thorough campaign for re-nomination, visiting many sections of the county. Smith is one of the best known men in the county but was unable to stop the tide for Mrs. Clardy. It was Smith's second attempt at the nomination for recorder of deeds, he having been defeated four years ago by Mrs. Clardy.

On the Republican ticket, Jack W. Greeson captured the nomination for recorder of deeds. Greeson's plurality was 238. John E. Brittain of Guilford was second with Townsend Godsey third. Greeson carried Maryville and Polk township over Godsey by 171.

More interest was taken in the United States senator race than in any of the county contests. This was true of both parties, with the Republicans, however, taking the lead. A wet and dry fight developed and union services were held Sunday night by the churches of the county, urging their members to vote for the dry candidates for senator. However, the regular Republican organization was backing Williams.

Little Work by Democrats.

On the Democratic ticket, there was no organization for Hawes and practically no work was done for either Cockrell or Meredith, the dry candidates.

The returns from all the county were in by 9:30 o'clock last night. Monroe township was the first one to report, sending her results over the telephone a little after the poll was closed. Then they came in fast for about an hour. Kansas City newspapers reported that Nodaway County was the first county to send in her complete returns.

The primary election vote yesterday will be cast up officially by the county court, commencing at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

COCKRELL TO ASSIST HAWES

WILL SUPPORT MAN WHO DEFEAT HIM FOR NOMINATION.

FAMILY WILL HELP

Judge Believes Democrats And Hawes Have More To Offer Than The Republican Party.

Warrensburg, Mo., Aug. 4.—Judge Ewing Cockrell, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator from Missouri on a dry platform, today declared he would support Representative Harry B. Hawes, should the latter win the nomination as now seems certain.

"I believe that Mr. Hawes and the Democratic party have very much more to offer than the Republican party," he said in a statement to the United Press this afternoon.

"I expect to campaign the state this fall in behalf of the party as do my wife and children who have done so much to help me in this campaign, regardless of whom the nominee may be," Judge Cockrell said.

"Although I differed with Mr. Hawes on some questions during the course of the campaign, I am ready to congratulate him. He made a clean campaign."

FORMULA FOR PEACE MADE

CATHOLIC BISHOP AND ATTY. GEN. IN CONFERENCE.

UP TO CALLES NOW

But President Of Mexico Is Known To Be None Too Friendly To Compromise Resembling Back Down.

Mexico City, Aug. 4.—Settlement of the controversy between the Catholic Church and the Mexican government today appeared to be squarely up to President Calles.

A formula for a peaceful settlement of the difficulties has been reached by Bishop Diaz of Tabasco and Attorney-General Romeo Ortega, it is reported, and is to be submitted to the president. There is no hope of religious regulations which caused the present strife being lifted, but it is understood that if President Calles is willing to accept a liberal interpretation of those regulations, that there may be a way open to peace.

The Catholics, it is reported, are willing to make some concessions and will accept some of the regulations such as the registration of priests, as a health order. Bishop Diaz has formally demanded the lifting of the regulations, a period of a year for an armistice of the plebiscite. However, it is understood that he is prepared not to insist on all of these demands in full if Calles displayed a willingness to permit a laxity in the enforcement of the regulations.

President Calles, however, has taken a firm stand and there is some doubt whether the formula will meet with his approval.

HAWES AND WILLIAMS WIN SENATORIAL NOMINATIONS

ST. LOUIS MEN VICTORS IN YESTERDAY'S PRIMARY.

THEIR LEADS PILE UP

Williams Plurality May Reach 80,000 And Hawes 60,000— Gantt Leads Ristine.

St. Louis, Aug. 4.—Both Harry B. Hawes and Senator George H. Williams continued to increase their leads on returns from 3,077 precincts out of the state's 4,987, tabulated here up to 1 o'clock this afternoon.

At that hour the vote stood 147,237 for Williams, who has outdistanced all other candidates in the race for the Republican nomination for United States Senator. His nearest opponent, David M. Proctor, had 68,117 while Blodgett Priest had 45,076.

In the Democratic race, Hawes had increased his plurality over Judge Ewing Cockrell to nearly 60,000 votes. The vote stood: Hawes, 128,481; Cockrell, 73,769, and Robert I. Young, 19,953.

Judge Ernest S. Gantt of Mexico had rolled up a 10,000-vote lead over Col. Carl Ristine in the Democratic race for Supreme Court judge. Returns from 2,325 out of 4,087 showed Gantt, 80,054, and Ristine, 70,453. MacGruder had 30,145.

St. Louis, Aug. 4.—Maintaining the wide plurality they received in earlier returns, Congressman Harry B. Hawes, wet and Democrat, and Senator George H. Williams, Republican and anti-prohibitionists, were still far out in the lead over their opponents as primary returns continued to pour in today in the Senatorial contest.

Hawes was leading his nearest opponent, Judge Ewing Cockrell, by nearly 45,000 votes, with returns from more than half the state tabulated. Williams was running away from David M. Proctor of Kansas City and on the same amount of returns, he was leading by about 70,000 votes.

Returns from 2,428 precincts out of 4,087 gave Hawes 99,763, Cockrell 54,734.

The same number of precincts in the Republican contest gave Williams 127,584, Proctor 57,174.

Circuit Judge Ernest S. Gantt of Mexico was leading Col. Carl Ristine of Lexington for the Democratic nomination for judge of the Missouri Supreme Court by 14,000 votes on returns from 1,156 precincts.

W. S. Smith was leading George W. Reavis for state superintendent of schools on the Republican ticket with the same number of precincts heard from. Charles A. Lee, Democratic incumbent, was unopposed.

In the outstate Congressional contests, this morning's returns showed the present incumbents in the lead. Congressman Romjue in the first district was 4,500 ahead of J. W. Dailey for Democratic nomination. In the second district, Congressman Ralph Lozier was winning by a large margin from Ragsdale.

Congressman Nelson in the eighth district had a lead of nearly 8,000 over Stephenson. In the fourteenth district, Congressman Bailey did not run and former Congressman Fullbright was leading by 2,000 for the Democratic nomination.

The incomplete returns show that David M. Proctor carried approximately 15 counties out of the 114 in the state. Some of the Proctor counties, according to the incomplete returns, are Andrew, Chariton, Christian, Clark, DeKalb, Harrison, Holt, Johnson, Linn, McDonald, Madison, Morgan, Nodaway, Ray and Ripley.

On the basis of the present returns, the Williams plurality will exceed 85,000 and he will have a majority over both opponents for the long term.

Few Bitter Races in Southwestern States

Light Vote Cast in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma—Walton Again Defeated in Senate Race.

Returns late today from the primaries in three Southwestern states, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, indicate that but few gubernatorial and Senatorial races were stiffly fought and that the vote polled may be somewhat below the average usually cast in these three states.

Missouri, where the wet and dry question has stirred up a considerable interest, has apparently nominated George H. Williams as the Republican candidate to succeed himself by a plurality that may exceed 80,000. Harry B. Hawes has won the Democratic Senatorial nomination.

Both dry candidates, David M. Proctor, Republican, and Judge Ewing Cockrell, Democrat, have apparently been snowed under. Hawes is a modificationist and Williams has declared he will abide by the decision of the voters in the liquor referendum in November.

The Klan has been the nearest approach to a political issue in Kansas. In the race for the Republican nomination for attorney-general, R. M. Anderson, pro-Klan, has a slight advantage over Capt. William A. Smith. For secretary of state, also a Klan and anti-Klan race, Ewing Herbert, pro-Klan, and Frank J. Ryan are running neck and neck. Senator Charles Curtis has a safe lead in his race for renomination. Governor Ben S. Paulen apparently has been renominated and in the Democratic gubernatorial race, the contest is between Jonathan M. Davis, former governor, and Donald Muir.

Jack C. Walton, former governor of Oklahoma, who was impeached in 1923 and defeated for the Democratic Senatorial nomination from Oklahoma two years ago, has apparently lost the same race in that state to Congressman Elmer Thomas.

Walton, a bitter enemy of the Klan during his tenure of office, based his race this year on the anti-Klan issue.

WILD GAME INCREASES

The United States now has 158,000,000 acres of national forests, under the care of the Forest Service. Wild life is protected in these forests with the result that many animals not so long ago in danger of extermination have begun to thrive.

An animal census has been taken by 1,000 forest rangers. It indicates that the big game animals such as deer, bear, antelope and elk are actually increasing and that mountain goats and mountain sheep are now holding their own. Beavers, too, are on the increase with about 114,000 all told in the national forests. Even the bison or buffalo herds have grown to almost embarrassing numbers.

This is as it should be. It is always easy enough to declare an open season and permit hunters to kill off the excess numbers of these wild animals. It is never easy to restore them after they have been exterminated. It is to be hoped that other lines of conservation will prove as successful and that our native trees, wildflowers, songbirds and noble eagles will be saved before it is too late.

THE RECLUSE LINGUIST

A 38-year-old professor in Posen, Poland, named Tassila Schultheiss, probably holds the world's linguistic record. He knows 36 languages and 240 dialects. Imagine the breadth of expression such an array of languages must give one. And yet the news dispatch that tells of his marvelous gift adds:

"Few people in Posen know him, for he leads the life of a recluse."

Able to talk in 36 languages and yet aloof from his fellow men!

There is no doubt that heavy weight prize fighting is "big business". Otherwise some gentlemen would have to do more of it to make a living.

A Boy Scout struck a fire by the scout friction method in 23 and 2-5 seconds which is better than can be done with a lot of the matches that are sold.

A very unusual campaign advertisement appeared in a Macon County paper last week. It was an appeal to the voters to elect another man. Squire Coe of Lydia Township explained that he had served his people as justice of the peace for twelve years and he appealed to them in large type to vote for some other man.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart.
NEA Service Writer.

Washington.—"Big business," the power behind the present administration in Washington, goes into the congressional campaign which is just starting now, handicapped the worst way.

It's a campaign in which a record expenditure of money was indicated as almost vitally necessary if "big business" expected to hold its own in the next Congress. All the signs are that political public sentiment has undergone a marked change, throughout large parts of the country in the last few months—a change which "big business" cannot but strenuously disapprove.

Notably, the tariff is under attack. The tariff is "big business'" most prized possession.

"Big business'" first thought in such emergencies—it's been demonstrated in many a campaign before—is to spend plenty of money. Generally speaking, it turns the trick.

But this time—one of the most threatening outlooks "big business" ever faced—it's prevented from spending much.

If anything, the filibuster which, just before Congress adjourned, prevented the Senate from adopting a resolution limiting campaign expenditures only made matters worse.

They're worse because the charge is being made now that the filibuster's deliberate purpose was to leave "big business" free to spend all it wished on the coming election, so as to remain in control of the next Congress, at least, whatever may be the complexion of future ones.

That may have been Senator Cameron's motive in conducting the filibuster. In fact, he said it wasn't. Nevertheless, the story is in circulation.

Year Colder in East, Warmer in Northwest

Wheat Belt Has Bumper Crop, But Nation's Corn, Oats and Potatoes Are Not So Good.

Washington, Aug. 4.—The weather this year has been colder than any year in the last nine for most of the United States east of the Rocky Mountains. In the great Northwest and in the northern Pacific coast states, it has been much warmer than the normal.

These facts, coupled with local weather conditions and good grain crop weather reported in other nations, will have a tremendous effect upon American commerce in the next few months, economic experts here assert.

In the wheat belt, for instance, weather a bit warmer than the normal in January and February helped growth, and cool weather in the months in which other crops are doing their principal growing did not hinder development, resulting in a bumper crop.

But favorable crops in other countries will prevent any profits from the surplus shipped abroad, so there will be no millionaires from this year's wheat crop.

Other crops almost uniformly were hindered by the cool April and May and hence prospects for corn, oats and other grains, as well as potatoes, are much lower than usual. The same warm weather which hit Kansas and Missouri to the great benefit of their wheat harvests in June fostered the growth of the chinch bugs, which are reported to be doing much damage to corn.

Weather bureau records for the temperatures are averaged up every month, but the fluctuations are so great that generalizations are very difficult. The meteorological staff, headed by P. C. Day, shows, however, that March and April ranged from 4 to 6 degrees below the normal in temperatures.

For this region, it was the coldest growing season since 1917. A similar cold spring was experienced in 1907 in most of the East.

This year's "cold spring" was particularly noticeable in New York and New England, where May and June also were exceptionally cold.

Ohio Divorces 14 Per Cent Greater in 1925

Washington, Aug. 4.—The Department of Commerce announced today there were 52,317 marriages performed in Ohio during 1925, as compared with 50,346 in 1924, representing an increase of 1,971, or 3.9 per cent.

During the year there were 13,666 divorces granted in the state, as compared with 11,946 in 1924, an increase of 1,720 or 14.4 per cent.

The estimated population of the state of Ohio on July 1, 1925, was 6,470,777, and on July 1, 1924, 6,346,799. On the basis of these estimates, the number of marriages per 1,000 of the population was 8.1 in 1925, as against 7.9 in 1924; and the number of divorces per 1,000 of the population was 2.11 in 1925, as against 1.88 in 1924.

Famous Composer Is Initiated as Indian

Santa Fe, N. M., Aug. 4.—Charles Wakeland Cadman, composer of music based on Indian melodies, will become one of the people he has long studied and loved, when he is initiated into the Hopi Indian tribe at the Santa Fe Fiesta beginning here today.

Cadman, who gained popularity with his son, "The Land of the Sky Blue Water," and was recognized as a writer of Indian operas when his "Shanewis" was produced at the Metropolitan in New York, has spent the last fifteen years in New Mexico, Colorado, and California, studying Indian music at first hand.

Deficient Wiring May Cause Numerous Fires

Few Blazes, Experts Say, Are Caused by Defective Wiring—Carelessness Largely Responsible.

St. Louis, Aug. 4.—Recent fires which destroyed residences in the outlying districts of country towns and which have been attributed to "defective wiring" have inspired the following warning and instructions from electrical companies in Missouri, according to the Missouri Committee on Public Utility Information.

Few fires, electric men say, are caused by defective wiring, although that deficiency may cause fire.

The great danger of fire from electric wiring comes, the companies say, from the extremely dangerous practice of householders using a coin, usually a penny or a dime, to replace broken fuses.

The proper fuse acts as a safety valve in that, when the current becomes too hot, it blows out and breaks the connection between the outside feed wires and the house wires.

Way Provided for All Vets to Come Home

Reduced Rates Established for "Last of A. E. F." Between Oct. 2 and June 30.

Washington, Aug. 4.—The way has been cleared for the "last of the A. E. F. to come home this fall. The United States shipping board has approved a schedule of reduced rates to allow alien veterans of the world war to return on United States lines steamers between October 1 and June 30. Some 2,500 former fighters are affected, it is understood.

The new rates average less than one half the regular rate. The veterans will be carried third class or tourist class from Bremen, Cherbourg, and Southampton for $35, compared with the regular $100 charge; second class on the George Washington or the Leviathan for $55 instead of $135; cabin class for $75 instead of $150; first class on the George Washington, $100 instead of $200; and first class on the Leviathan $130 instead of $260.

Smith Declares He Is in No Way Obligated

Republican Senatorial Nominee From Illinois Files Sweeping Denial of Favoritism With Committee.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—In a sweeping defense of his Senatorial campaign, Frank L. Smith, Republican nominee in the recent Illinois million-dollar Senatorial primary, today filed a formal statement with the Senate slush fund committee denying he was under obligations to any person or corporation because of contributions to his campaign fund.

Smith's denial came as a reply to newspaper inferences that there was something questionable in the gift of $206,000 to his campaign by public utilities interests while he remained chairman of the Illinois commerce commission.

He flatly denied that he had ever shown favoritism to anyone in his official position.

In a supplementary brief, reported to the committee, while he was chairman, reduced rates of virtually every public utility brought before it. He cited the Chicago surface railway, Chicago elevated railways, the public service companies of northern and central Illinois, the electric light companies and the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. In the latter case, he said, a federal injunction blocked the rate reduction.

Daughters Sue to Partition 90 Acres

Mrs. Nellie Gillespie and Mrs. Laura Morehouse Claim Share in Land in Name of Brother.

A suit to set aside a deed and to partition land owned by the late Mrs. Sarah E. Taylor was filed in circuit court late yesterday by Mrs. Nellie Gillespie, her husband, Loren L. Gillespie, and Mrs. Laura Morehouse, with Charles J. and Louisa Taylor as defendants.

The land involved is eighty acres about four miles southeast of Hopkins, described as the north half of the northwest quarter of section 20, township 66, range 35, and ten acres north of Pickering, described as the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 3, township 65, range 35.

Mrs. Gillespie and Mrs. Morehouse are daughters and Mr. Taylor is a son of Mrs. Taylor who died on March 30, 1926. The petition states that on December 15, 1921, Mrs. Taylor executed a warranty deed to the land in favor of her son, but at the time she signed the deed she delivered it to the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Hopkins to be held by the bank until after her death and then to be delivered by the bank to Taylor. Mrs. Taylor, the petition declares, reserved the right to withdraw the deed at any time during her life.

It is charged that at the death of Mrs. Taylor the son "wrongfully obtained possession" of the deed and caused it to be recorded. The two daughters declare he "never had possession during the life of Mrs. Taylor," and ask the court to give each of the three children an equal one-third interest.

SEEKS AID IN MELLETT CASE

FEDERAL AUTHORITIES ASKED TO HELP SOLVE MYSTERY.

SEARCH IN CHICAGO

Pictures Of Ex-Convict, Recently Released From Atlanta Prison, Distributed To Officers.

Washington, Aug. 4.—An effort to secure the co-operation of the federal government in the investigation of the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton, Ohio editor, was started today.

Lowell Mellett, brother of the slain editor, conferred with acting prohibition chief Dow and Elmer Irey of the intelligence department of the bureau of internal revenue. Dow laid the case before the acting secretary of treasury, who declared that so far as he could determine no federal law had been violated and that the case was purely one of violation of the Ohio state laws.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—A hunt for the slayer of Don R. Mellett, Canton, Ohio editor and anti-vice crusador, was extended to Chicago today with the arrival of Canton investigators. Shortly after the Ohio operators reached this city, pictures of Patrick Eugene McDermitt, ex convict released recently from the Atlanta federal prison, were distributed to members of the detective force and an intensive search for him was begun.

More Funds Needed for Cemetery Roads

With $900 Made Unavailable, Committee Issues Appeal for New or Increased Donations.

An appeal for more funds, in order that the improvement of the roads to all of Maryville's cemeteries may be completed, was issued today by the committee in charge of the work, composed of J. P. Price, Nick Sturm, Will Williams, William Doffing and Burt M. Rowley.

"There are many who have not yet helped us in the work, who, we feel sure, will want to have a part in the work," a statement by the committee said. "If you will come and go with us and see what we are doing, I am certain you will not only be willing but you will want to do your part in it.

"Many have given liberally, but some have said they would give us more if we fell short. We have $900 of what we had collected tied up so we cannot get it. This is why we are compelled to make this appeal. Please think this over and let us have your name on the list as one of the number who helped in this long needed improvement."

Primary Voters Do Little "Writing In," But 54 Cast a Ballot for E. E. Williams

Nodaway County voters did little "writing in" in yesterday's primary election, but if the scattered votes of this kind may be taken as an indication E. E. Williams of Maryville would make a popular candidate on the Republican ticket.

Mr. Williams' name was written in fifty-one times for prosecuting attorney and three times for probate judge, according to the unofficial tabulation. The Republicans had no candidates for these places on the printed ballots.

The Williams "volunteer" votes came in five precincts, as follows: For prosecuting attorney, 24 in Hughes township; 7 in Green township; 4 in the first ward, Maryville; 3 in the second ward; and 13 in the fourth ward. For probate judge, 3 in the first ward.

F. P. Robinson, another Maryville attorney, had one vote for prosecuting attorney in the second ward and three in the fourth ward. W. H. Sawyers received two votes for prosecuting attorney in the fourth ward, and J. H. Sayler had one vote for probate judge in the second ward.

For judge of the south district, Edgar Elliott received five votes in Hughes township, and J. F. McManus was given one vote in Northwest Jefferson. The Democrats proposed no candidate to oppose Judge Charles Armstrong, the present member of the county court from the south district and renominated on the Republican ticket.

For presiding judge, E. A. Teuscher received one vote in North Lincoln precinct, and John Nielsen had one vote in the second ward.

R. J. Puckett, son of the Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Puckett of this city, is being prominently mentioned as a candidate for a director of the National Retail Men's Credit association, according to a recent issue of the Wichita Eagle, which has the following:

R. J. Puckett, credit manager of the Allen W. Hinkel Dry Goods Company, will be a candidate for director of the National Retail Credit Men's association, when the organization's convention opens in Los Angeles, next week.

Puckett is president of the Retail Credit Men's association of Wichita. In company with C. E. Waggoner, secretary, and J. G. McBride, he will leave for Los Angeles Thursday.

The Wichita association has lined up many Kansas delegates for their candidate. Puckett will be supported by practically every credit association in Kansas, including those in Pittsburg, Hutchinson, Newton, Emporia, Abilene and Lawrence. Oklahoma City has thrown its support to him. An active campaign has been waged in his behalf.

There are 15 directors in the national association. Five of these go out of office this year. As directors from Oklahoma City and Omaha go out of office this year, there will be a vacancy for this territory.

The GIRL in the MIRROR

By Elizabeth Jordan

COPYRIGHT BY THE CENTURY COMPANY

THE STORY.

CHAPTER I.—Barbara Devon's wedding and departure of her honeymoon leaves her brother "Laurie," successful playright but somewhat inclined to wildness, without her restraining influence. His theatrical associates, Rodney Bangs and Jacob Epstein, promise to "keep an eye on him."

CHAPTER II. — Laurie, who is wealthy, refuses to settle down to work, announcing his intention of resting and seeking "adventure." From his window in New York he sees the reflection of a beautiful girl in a mirror in the house opposite.

Thus the subconscious argument went on and on. It worried Laurie. He was not used to such violent mental exercise. He dined alone that night and it was well he did so. His lack of appetite would certainly have attracted the attention of Bangs or any other fellow diner, and Bangs would as certainly have commented upon it. Also, he passed a restless night, troubled by vaguely depressing dreams. The girl was in them, but everything was as hopelessly confused as his daytime mental processes had been.

The next morning he deliberately kept away from the mirror until he was fully dressed, but he dressed with a feeling of tenseness and urgency he would have found it difficult to explain. He only knew that today he meant to do something definite, something that would settle once for all the question that filled his mind. But what could he do? That little point was still unsettled. Knock at the girl's door, pretend that it was a blunder, and trust to inspiration to discover in the brief encounter if anything was wrong? Or put money in an envelope and push it under her door? If he did that, she would probably give the money to Sam, as she had given him the food.

What to do? Laurie proceeded with his toilet, using the dressing-case and carefully avoiding the long morror. He experienced an odd unwillingness to look into that mirror this morning, based partly on delicacy—he remembered the nightdress—but more on the fear of disappointment. If he saw her, it would be an immense relief. If he didn't, he'd fancy all sorts of things, for now his imagination was running away with him.

When he was fully dressed he crossed the room in three strides and stopped before the mirror with a suddenness that checked him halfway in the fourth.

Miss Mayo's window was open. He could see that. He could see more than that, and what he saw sent him rushing through the study and out into hall of the big apartment building where he furiously rang the elevator bell. He had not stopped for his hat and coat, but he had caught a vision of Bangs' astonished face and half of his startled exclamation, "What the dev—"

The elevator came and Laurie leaped into it.

"Down," he said briefly.

The operator was on his way up to the twelfth floor, but something in the expression of his passenger made him change his plans. Also it accelerated his movements. The car descended briskly to the ground floor, from which point the operator was priveleged to watch the progress of the temperamental Mr. Devon, who had plunged through the main entrance of the building and across the square without a word to the hall attendants, or a backward glance.

As he reached the studio building Laurie recalled himself to a memory of the conventions. He entered without undue haste, and sought the door of the waiting lift. It was noon, and an operator he had not seen before was on duty.

"Top floor," directed Laurie, and stepped into the car. The operator hesitated. He did not remember this tenant, but he must belong to the house, as he wore no hat or coat. Probably he was a newcomer, and had run downstairs to mail an important letter, as the old building held no mail chute. While these reflections passed slowly through his mind, his car rose as slowly. To the mentally fuming young man at his side its progress was intolerably deliberate. He held himself in, however, and even went through the pantomime of pausing in the top-floor hall to search a pocket as if for a latchkey.

Satisfied, the attendant started the elevator on its descent, and as it sank from sight Laurie looked around him for Number Twenty-nine. He discovered it in an eye-flash, on the door at the right. The next instant he had reached this door and was softly turning the knob.

The door did not yeild. He had not expected it to give, and he knew exactly what he meant to do. He stepped back a few feet, then with a rush hurled his shoulder against the wood with the full force of his football training in the effort. The lock yielded, and under the force of his own momentum the visitor shot into the rooom. Then, recovering his equilibrium, he pushed the door into place and stood with his back against it, breathing heavily and feeling rather foolish.

He was staring at the girl before him, who had risen at his entrance. Her expression was so full of astonished resentment, and so lacking in any other emotion, that for a sickening moment he believed he had made an idiot of himself, that he had not really seen what he thought he had seen in the glass. A small table separated him from the girl. Still staring at her, in the long second that elapsed before either spoke, he saw that she had swept her right hand behind her back, in a swift, instinctive effort to hide what it held. His self-possession returned. He had not been mistaken. He smiled at her apologetically.

"I beg your pardon," he said. "I'm afraid I frightened you!"

"You did." She spoke tensely, the effect of overstrained nerves revealing itself in her low voice. "What do you mean by it? What are you doing here?"

Laurie's brilliant eyes were on hers as she spoke, and held them steadily. Under his expression, one that few had seen on his face, her look of antagonism softened a little. He advanced slowly to the table between them.

"It will take a few minutes to explain," he said. Then, as she waited, he suddenly formed his plan, and followed the good old Devon principle of going straight to the point.

"I live diagonally across the square," he said quietly, "and I can see into your window from one of mine. So it happened that just now I—I saw what you were going to do."

For an instance she stood very still, looking at him, as if not quite taking in the meaning of his words. In the next her face and even her neck crimsoned darkly as if under the rush of a wave of angry humiliation. When she spoke her voice shook.

"You forget," she said, "that you have no right either to look into my room or to interfere with what you see there."

"I know," he told her, humbly, "and I beg your pardon again. The looking in was an accident, the merest chance, which I will explain to you later. The interference—well, I won't apologize for that. Surely you realize that it's friendly."

For the first time her eyes left his. She looked around the room as if uncertain what to do or say.

"Perhaps you mean it so," she muttered at last. "But I consider it—impertinent."

A change was taking place in her. The fire that had flamed up at his entrance was dying out, leaving her with the look of one who is cowed and almost beaten. Even her last words lacked assurance. Watching her in puzzled sympathy, Laurie for the first time wished himself older and wiser than he was. How could he handle a situation like this? Neither then or later did he ask himself how he would have handled it on the stage.

For a moment the two young things gazed at each other, in helplessness and irresolution on his side, in resentful questioning on hers. Even in the high tension of the moment Laurie subconsciously took in the picture she made as she stood there, defying him, with her back to the wall of life.

She was very lovely, more lovely than in the mirror; for now he was getting the full effect of her splendid coloring, set off by the gown she wore, a thing of rich but somber shades, lit up by a semi-barbaric necklace of amber and gold, that hung almost to her knees.

Yes, the girl was a picture against the unforgetable background of that tragic situation. But what he admired most of all was the dignity that shone through her panic and her despair. She was up in the arms against him. And yet, if he had not come, if that vision had not flashed into his mirror five minutes ago, she might now have been lying a huddled, lifeless thing on the very spot where she stood so proudly. At the thought his heart shook. The right words came to him at last.

"I've had—impulses—like yours," he said. "I've had them twice. Fortunately, both times there was some one around to talk me out of them." He had caught her attention. She showed that by the way she looked at him. "The argument that impressed me most," he went on, "was that it's quitting the game. You don't look as if you were a quitter," he ended, thoughtfully.

The girl's eyes blazed. He had aroused her once more, and he was glad of it. He didn't know at all what to do or say, but he dimly felt that almost any emotion in her would be better than the lethargy she had just revealed.

"I'm not a quitter!" she cried. "But I've got dignity enough to leave a place where I'm not wanted, even if that place happens to be the world. Go away!" she added fiercely. "Go away and leave me alone!"

Resting one hand on the table between them, he held out the other.

"Come, let me have that," he suggested, imperturbably. "Then we'll talk things over. I'll try to make you realize what I was made to realize myself—that we were both on the wrong track. I'll tell you what other think who are wiser than we are."

As she did not move, he added, more lightly: "You see, what we were going to do isn't done much nowadays. It's all out of date. Come," he repeated, gently, "let me have it."

With a movement of irritation the girl swept her hand forward and tossed on the table between them the small revolver she had been holding.

"Take it," she said, almost indifferently. And she added, "another time will do as well."

He picked up the little weapon and put it into his pocket.

"There isn't going to be any other time," he predicted buoyantly. "Now, slip into a coat while I run across the street and get my hat and coat and order a taxicab. We're going out to luncheon, and to tell each other the stories of our lives, with all the grim and gory details."

"I don't know you," muttered the girl. She had dropped into a chair beside the table, and was sitting with her chin in her hand, in what seemed a characteristic attotude, watching him with an expression he could not analyze.

Laurie seemed surprised. "Why, so you don't!" he agreed. "But you're going to, now. We're going to know each other awfully well before we get through. In the meantime, you can see by the merest glance at me how young and harmless I am. Where's the coat?"

He turned and began a vague, masculine search for it. The girl wavered. His rising spirits were contagious, and it was clear that she dreaded being left alone.

"I warn you," she said at last, "that if you have anything to do with me you will be sorry for it."

Laurie stopped his search, and, turning, gave her one of his straight looks.

"Why?" he demanded.

"Because I'm in a net," she said. "And everyone who tries to help me gets caught in it, too. Oh, don't smile! You won't smile afterward."

He picked up a coat he discovered in a corner, and held it for her to slip into.

"I like nets," he remarked lightly, "especially if they're bright-colored, large, roomy, comfortable nets. We'll have some great times in ours. Come along."

She shrugged her shoulders, and in the gesture slipped into the garment.

"I'll go," she said in a low voice. "But don't forget that I warned you!"

Quite a number of the local A. F. & A. M. brethern, attended the Masonic dedication last Friday in Maryville.

The concert given by our orchestra on Friday evening, July 30, was one of the most brilliant musical events in the history of our community. The program was rendered as published with but one or two changes and the work of the musicians, both ensemble and in solo parts, was excellent. The threatening weather of the afternoon, and the busy season of threshing time combined to make the audience a small one. It may be possible to repeat the concert in the near future. Miss Kibbe has won a firm place in this community by her work with our orchestra. She will teach music the coming school year in the schools of Knox City in northeastern Missouri.

Rev. Underwood and family returned Thursday evening from a two weeks trip to points in Oklahoma. They report a pleasant trip and fine weather and roads, the only mud encountered, being ten miles between Rosendale and the paving on the return trip. He says crops are looking fine in Oklahoma.

A program will fill the morning hours from 9 to 12 a. m. and the afternoon will be given over to different kinds of recreation. A picnic dinner will be one of the attractions. All former students whether alumni or not are urged to be present. Come and enjoy the day with us.

Some sneak thief stole between two and three hundred marketable chickens from Mrs. B. K. Lewis' Sunday evening while the family were at church. Some cheap Dr. ought to have the job of picking a charge of buck shot from the rear portion of the anatomy of any one guilty of such a contemptable piece of thievery.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Grain prices continued to sag on the Board of Trade here today, closing below yesterday's final figures in all positions.

Wheat was ¼ to ⅜ cents lower, December showing a little more strength than September. May opened 1.48⅝ but lost ⅛. It was only a trading market that opened fractionally higher on the Candian weather news, crop reports and Liverpool cables.

Corn was under pressure throughout the day and closed lower.

Oats had another day losing ⅝ to ¾. Provisions sold a bit lower because of free selling and indifferent demand.
